Findings:

General: Based on review of documentation, on 03/28/2022, video footage showed a staff person treated a two-year-old child inappropriately in a classroom. The staff person was sitting on the floor with several children gathered around her playing with blocks. At one point a two-year-old child is seen sitting on her knees directly behind the staff person. The staff person reaches around behind her, while still sitting on the floor and grab the child right above the left elbow and drag the child approximately 2 feet so the child is next to the staff person. The child who was still on her knees loses her balance and catches herself by placing her right hand on the floor. The child then stands up and is face to face with the staff person. The staff person is then seen shaking her finger very close to the child's face and appears to say something to the child. The child then walks away but it appears the staff person is still upset because she is then seen forcefully grabbing an object from a child and placing it between her legs. The staff person is also seen grabbing blocks away from children in an aggressive manner. A second staff person stated that she had seen and heard the staff person in question get loud and be somewhat impatient with the children in the classroom. The staff person in question stated that she did feel as if she was a little too aggressive with the children at times but is now more patient with the children. The staff person in charge stated that the staff in question was placed on probation and was given a coaching session. It should be noted that a prior incident happened on 02/14/2022 with the staff person in question regarding tone of voice and aggression towards children in the classroom.
