Findings:

General: Based on Interview, a nineteen (19) month old child suffered a spiral fracture to his right leg as a result of a fall in his classroom on 5/30/13. In an interview with staff it was found that the child had been climbing on an un-operational heating vent unit that is attached to the wall. When the staff person told the child to get down, the child came down from the unit, falling on his left side. The child's right leg remained positioned between the wall and the large vinyl cushion that had been placed next to the wall in the Soft Area. This resulted in the twisting of the child's right leg. The staff person indicated that the children like to climb on the unit when in the Soft Area and that she repeatedly has to ask the children get down from the unit.
