| Findings: | |
| General: Based on observation of video footage and interviews, the surveyor found that on 06/11/18, a three-year-old child fell from a rock-climbing wall resulting in a broken femur which necessitated extensive and prolonged medical care. Through review of documentation, the surveyor found that the child's health and safety were compromised as the manufacturer recommends use of the rock-climbing wall for children that are four to eight-years-old. | |
