Findings:

General: Based on Observation, and interview, the child care center director failed to assure compliance with regulatory requirements. Based on observation in the one year old room, a staff member was observed standing, watching children participate in extended free-play time without interaction with the children or guidance to a directed activity. A male child was observed crying for approximately twenty minutes while the staff member provided no direction and no care, failing to address the child's need or reason for crying. A female child was observed asleep on the floor and went unnoticed by the staff member. Based on extended observation, children were observed wandering aimlessly in the room while children were observed crying with running noses down into their mouths and the noses were not wiped. Based on continued observation, one male child was put into a bucket seat in the table and given a crayon and coloring sheet while the other five (5) children gathered around the edge of the table and watched. Based on an interview with the staff member, she stated she would only allow one child to perform the activity as the children would eat the crayons if more were placed in the table. Based on continued observation, all of the children were then placed into the seats of the bucket table. Three children were observed chewing on crayons without the staff member observing. Continued observation revealed that when the staff member became aware the children were putting the crayons into their mouths, the staff member simply recanted innumerable times, "No, we don't eat crayons!" The staff member would take the crayon away from the child and replace it with another crayon. Based on observation during lunch time in the one year old room revealed another staff member who forcefully pushed a child's legs down into the bucket seat, when seating her at the table, rather than positioning the child to slide into the seat. Continued observation after lunch in the aforementioned class, revealed a child, whose injured foot had a therapeutic covering on it, was removed from a bucket seat and the injured foot was knocked against the back side of three (3) of the hard buckets without regard to the injury, before placing the child onto the floor. Based on continued observation, both of the staff members in the one year old classrooms were observed picking children up by one arm inappropriately. Based on further observation, a one year old male child was wearing sweat pants which were very long and had gathered around his feet, severely hindering his ability to walk successfully, and failed to be observed by the supervising staff member. Exit phone interview with the staff in charge revealed acknowledgement of the deficiency.
